

[ But this message is really important! ]

Every business professional has calls that are too important to be placed on hold or routed to voice mail. According to Office Systems magazine, 75% of business calls are not completed on the first try. Fast-paced work flow demands fast-paced information flow.

Omninode is a totally different concept in business communication that lets you send and receive concise messages in seconds. Perfect for the busy professional, the flash message feature makes sure that prompt attention and the correct response is given to important calls.

If you spend far too much time each day retrieving voice mail and email messages, Omninode can help.

Omninode flash messages are initiated by the executive assistant or receptionist to announce a phone call. The message appears immediately across the LED display. The professional responds by the touch of a key to "hold the call" or to "take a message."

Omninode. Instant Message. Instant Answer.

OMNINOTE®

Instant message. Instant answer.

The Omninote advantage

Omninote's flash message feature allows executive assistants or receptionists to quickly send messages without interrupting other phone calls or meetings. Should the professional request "take a message" for a particular call, the message is taken and printed instantly on the Omninote. No more message pads required.

Omninote is simple to install and use. An elaborate network is not required and there is no software to learn.

A message can instantly be sent to a group of users regarding a meeting reschedule, a critical business issue, etc. Users will receive and read immediately, not waiting until emails are retrieved.

With Omninote, important clients are given the attention they deserve, without sitting on hold. Internal office communication is improved.

How Omninote works

Assume you are on an important call and your largest customer calls. Your assistant sends you a flash message that appears on your Omninote display — "Mr. Jones of Mammoth Buying Group is holding."

You instantly choose one of 18 preprogrammed reply choices by pressing a key on your keyboard.

1. Hold the call
2. Send the call in immediately
3. Take a message
4. Will return call within 5 minutes

...and more

Your assistant receives your preprogrammed response and advises Mr. Jones. Telephone tag is avoided and the most important calls are handled correctly.

- Call waiting/ screening while professionals are on the phone
- Discreetly announce calls or arrival of visitors
- Essential messages get to intended parties immediately
- Confidential call notification
- Eliminate telephone tag
- Prints message if flash message is ignored
- No more missed messages
- Stops time wasted on hold
